OUTCOME

On the successful completion a Statement of Attainment for RIICCM202E – Identify, locate and protect underground services is issued.

This short course on underground asset location is designed for all workers who conduct any type of work activity near underground services. This course is designed to equip participants with the knowledge and skills about current legislation and their basic duty of care for locating and protecting underground services, prior to the commencement of any excavation works.

Management of risks arising from presence of above-ground, overhead, and underground services in vicinity of workplaces and in particular the use of safe working procedures (SWMS), permits and other safety related documentation will be covered.

Procedures, controls and emergency response requirements for those hazards present at the site, determined through risk assessment, are to be reinforced throughout the training sessions.

The reading of the information received from the BYD service is thoroughly covered, including the Duty of Care requirements of the asset owner and how to read their plans.

The practical component consists of analysing the BYD plans for the location, the theory of pipe and cable locating, and learning how the equipment works and how to use the equipment.
